

Starstuff

Solo Show (Long Form) Submission Info

Starstuff is a festival of solo artists produced by Astro Lab Productions. It's a weekend of powerful personal storytelling, original performance, music, creative workshops, and real connection - Starstuff will return to Seattle this October 23 -25 at Kerry Hall.

We are looking for a small constellation of emerging songwriters (ages 16+) to join us.

If selected you'll be asked to...

- Perform your show one time at the festival.
- Share preview materials and meet with an emerging songwriter who will write a song inspired by your work to be shared after your performance.
- Be an artist ambassador for Starstuff.
- Share your creative process by creating social media content and engaging with the community leading up to the festival.
- Engage in conversations with artists and audiences throughout.
- Commit to a timeline of tech and media material submission, tech rehearsal.
- Attend the whole festival weekend

We are looking for...

- Shows that are connected to personal journeys.
- 60-80m run time
- Artists who bring vulnerability and clear perspective as both writers and performers, and who are eager to engage in conversation with other artists and audiences.

Process/Timeline

- Submissions due 6/29/26
- Selected Artists announced 7/6
- Orientation call TBD between 8/2 - 8/7
- Festival Oct 23 - 25 (with tech rehearsals starting early 10/23)

Starstuff

Selected artists will receive...

- Artist Stipend of $1500
- Out-of-town travel reimbursement as appropriate
- Full pass +1 to the whole festival including workshops.
- Featured on Astro Lab social media and website.
- Opportunity to meet and connect with working artists and an engaged audience.
- Video capture of performance

We are not only interested in your creation or even your performance - we're excited about your presence. The contribution of your unique voice to the Starstuff conversation and to the ongoing artistic exploration of what it means to be human - alone and together.

About Starstuff

- Oct 23 - 25 at STG @ Kerry Hall in Seattle
- Four long-form solo shows
- Original music created and performed by four emerging songwriters.
- Short-form solo performances by four uniquely talented performing artists across disciplines.
- Immersive and personal theatrical experience featuring a non-theatre artist
- Four creative workshops on using art as a vessel to explore and reckon with all the stuff that's happened to you - from the epic to the intimate. Open to all.
- Parties, conversations, and shared discovery.

Committed to creative exchange, and artistic connection, Starstuff is built to be experienced as a journey - from Friday evening through Sunday afternoon - with all-access passes. Performances are organized into small constellations - each featuring a long form artist, a short form artist, a songwriter, and a seating of an immersive theatrical experience. These take place on Friday night, Saturday afternoon, Saturday night, and Sunday afternoon. The workshops will take place on Saturday morning.
